As a litigation paralegal, Jennifer Keating-Wolk makes sure CGS3 attorneys and clients are on-track to achieving a satisfying outcome in the litigation process. A dedicated and reliable paralegal, Jennifer excels at maximizing attorneys' productivity and is known for her eye for detail and organizational skills. With a diverse law background, she has the unique ability to adapt to different practice areas quickly and efficiently, which has been an asset when it comes to adapting to the wide variety of real estate matters handled by the CGS3 litigation team.

Jennifer started her legal career after graduating from UC Berkeley and has been a paralegal for over 10 years. She has experience in all phases of litigation – from pre-litigation to trial to appeal – in various state and federal courts, on cases from small to complex. Prior to joining CGS3, she was a litigation paralegal at Higgs Fletcher & Mack and Lief Cabraser Heimann & Bernstein in San Francisco.

Jennifer stays active in the professional legal community and has served as a board member and executive committee member of the San Diego Paralegal Association.
